

Arch 454/554 : Vertical Studio

Spring 2025

Professor Matthew Brehm

Intermodal Transportation Center : Portland, Oregon

This studio will be focused on design process and design communication, utilizing a complex urban site and requiring proposals that are at once visionary and practical.

We will prioritize issues of context, concept, program, structure, craft, and communication, and will embark on an integral field trip to Portland, OR, tentatively scheduled for the week prior to Spring Break.

The project calls for an Intermodal Transportation Center - "the convergence of two or more modes of transportation systems within the urban context, [which may include] international, regional, and local train stations, bus terminals, ports, airports and spaceports."
