

BACHELOR OF SCIENCE IN BUSINESS MAJOR IN OPERATIONS AND SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT

TOP 5% OF BUSINESS PROGRAMS WORLDWIDE

With a major in Operations and Supply Chain Management you will be prepared to work across a diverse range of industries in roles overseeing process management, project management, and supply chain management. You will be prepared to manage people and processes to produce high-quality goods and services that meet customer needs while reducing waste in time, money, and materials.

In addition to your operations & supply chain management coursework, you will graduate from U of I with a strong business foundation, grow your communication skills, and have hands-on experiences that prepare you for your first career after graduation!

- Gain practical experience with the Business Process Center, spending a semester solving a process or project management problem faced by your industry partner.
- Expand your network by getting involved in U of I's student chapter of Association for Supply Chain Management (ASCM)
- Work in interdisciplinary teams and learn from your peers in degrees from other disciplines.
- Participate in the co-op program, an opportunity for you to earn six to nine months of full-time work experience in the middle of your college career
